SOLENN REQUIEM MASS

On hearing the news this morning of the death of the Pope, the Pope's flag—yellow and white—was hoisted at half-mast above the Catholic Mission, in company with the Stars and Stripes, it being the custom always to hoist both together.

Father Valentin stated that he had been in conference with Father Matthias and that it had been decided to hold a solemn requiem mass some day next week, the exact date to be decided on later. The announcement will be made at the services on Sunday next.

Previous to his departure for the Coast, Pro-Vicar Libert left word that in case anything should happen, those in charge of the church should do what they might think best. It was upon this word from the Pro-Vicar that it was decided today to hold the mass already referred to.

At 12 noon today half-minute bells tolled from the Catholic Cathedral on Fort street and at 1 o'clock they ceased.

From today the bell will toll for a quarter of an hour at morning, noon and evening, these to continue until there has been received news of the election of a new Pope.

Clarence Macfarlane is confined to the house in consequence of injuries received from a fall of about twenty feet while working at his Peninsula home.

GREAT PONTIFF DIES

[Associated Press Special Cable.]

ROME, Italy, July 20.—Pope Leo died at 4:04 o'clock this afternoon, his last words before passing to his final rest being the Benediction. The end came peacefully except for a slight choking immediately preceding the lapse into insensibility. The death bed scene was most impressive. The dying Pontiff was surrounded by Cardinals, members of the Papal court, diplomats and relatives, who had been summoned early in the day.

Pope Leo XIII was the 258th Roman pontiff and 257th successor of St. Peter. The son of Count Ludovico Pecci, he was born at Carpineto, March 2, 1810, and was baptized by the names of Vincenzo and Gioacchino. In 1818 he was sent to the Jesuit College at Viterbo. At the Collegio Romano, which he entered in 1824, he won the first premium in physico-chemistry. In his third year of philosophy he sustained a public disputation and obtained the first premium. The following year, 1831, when only 21 years of age, he obtained the highest honor in philosophy. As a youth Pecci was studious, devoting little time to entertainments and amusements. He wrote Latin prose and verse when but 12 years of age.

While at the College of Noble Ecclesiastics, Pecci frequented the schools of the Roman University to learn canon and civil law.

CLAVERING RUNS AGROUND ON REEF

Half Length of British Steamer Fast On Bottom.

SEVERAL TUGS GO TO RENDER ASSISTANCE

LIGHTER PIONEER TAKING OFF PART OF CARGO—HIGH TIDE MAY ASSIST RESCUE WORK.

3 p. m.—The tugs at work on the Clavering succeeded in moving the steamer sufficiently to indicate successful release from her predicament. The steamer will probably come into the harbor this afternoon.

2 p. m.—The Clavering has moved a little and it looks as if the vessel will be gotten off the reef this afternoon.

The British steamship Clavering, 14 days out from Yokohama, arrived off port last night and immediately met with disaster. As far as can be ascertained, the vessel was steaming in error, looking for an anchorage. It was the captain's watch. The master, Captain Barton, was on the bridge. A sailor was forward taking soundings. The captain was on the lookout for the bell buoy, but as this is very difficult to pick up at night, he passed it.

The sailor making the soundings did not call anything before the steamer struck the reef. Suddenly the second officer, who was forward, called out "order the engines full speed astern." Before this could be done, the steamship struck and slid up on the reef.

The place where the Clavering struck the reef is on the east side of the channel, between the bell and spar buoys, but far inshore of a line drawn between the two. It is very nearly the same spot where the China struck some years ago. Other vessels have met with trouble in this same vicinity. As soon as the master of the Clavering realized what a precarious position his vessel was in, the whistle was sounded for assistance and red lights displayed.

Pilot Lorenzen went out to the steamer and on finding out the trouble, returned ashore for assistance. The steamer Lehua, coming back from Molokai with the Board of Health, passed the Clavering and offered assistance, but the offer was declined. The tug Charles Counselman went to assist and put out a line.

The Clavering went aground at 9:15 p. m. At that time, it was about half tide. This morning, when careful soundings were taken, it was found that about half the steamer's length was fast. The steamer is supposed to draw 22 feet of water. There are 22 feet of water right off her bridge. Consequently, all the part of the steamer forward of the bridge, is fast. The steamer's starboard bilge is fast on the bottom, while her port bilge is free. She has a list to starboard. As a consequence, she heels over to port when a swell lifts her, and pounds a little. She is resting on a bottom composed of sand and coral.

As the sea is exceptionally smooth today, it is not expected that much damage will be done. The danger is lessened on account of the fact that the steamer is provided with a double bottom. The Counselman attempted to pull the steamer off. The attempt was unsuccessful. At about 3 a. m. the hawser, a 10-inch Manila parted and the Counselman had to get a new one. The steamer's water ballast tanks, which are aft, were pumped out. The Counselman put her new line aft on the steamer and was this morning occupied with keeping the steamer's

BLEEDING, HE SEEKS JUSTICE

Second Officer of Hawaiian Isles Alleges Assault.

SAYS HE WAS KICKED IN THE FACE WHILE DOWN

ASSISTANT UNITED STATES DISTRICT ATTORNEY DUNNE LISTS TENS TO NEILSON'S STORY.

With head bowed down with weight of woe, in the possession of a couple of painful and badly damaged eyes, nursing a face discolored, swollen, bruised, lacerated and dripping blood, Second Officer Neilson sat in the office of United States Marshal Hendry at an early hour this morning, awaiting the coming of United States District Attorney Breckons, to whom he wished to tell his tale of conflict and resultant and obvious damages.

Upon the arrival of Assistant United States District Attorney Dunne, that gentleman ordered the battered mariner into his office for a recital of his troubles.

Neilson must have been through a long and painful series of misunderstandings aboard the ship Hawaiian Isles, for, after monopolizing Mr. Dunne's forenoon, he is still but midway with his story.

Neilson claims that he was set upon by the first mate of the Hawaiian Isles and offers his face in evidence as proof of his harrowing tale. He claims that the alleged assault was without reason and was without provocation on his part.

There are allegations on the other side, it seems, for it is said that the second mate went aboard the Hawaiian Isles at a late hour last night in a state of undue enthusiasm induced by indulgence ashore in stimulating beverages. In this happy but uncertain and ambitious state of mind he is alleged to have adopted the entire ship as his own personal property and started, in his own particular way, to prove the assumption to the vessel's crew. To this unauthorized proprietorship the first officer, among others, is supposed to have strenuously objected.

Complications followed at a rapid rate, and, somehow, resulted in the artistic blending of the second mate's features.

Whether the first officer or others, or both, undertook to chastise Neilson for any reason, or the injured man inadvertently, while under the alleged influence of strong drink, struck the deck or some other hard substance

Venezuela Rebels Meet Heavy Loss

[Associated Press Special Cable.]

SOLEDAD, Venezuela, July 20.—The rebel forces at Ciudad Bolivar began an attack on the Government forces that surround the city at an early hour this morning. Owing to the surprise occasioned by the early onslaught the Government troops were for a time threatened with annihilation. They rallied promptly, however, and forced the rebels back to their stronghold with a loss of over 200 men. Soon after the battle commenced, the city was shelled by five Venezuelan vessels, the Government troops advancing to the walls of the city under cover of the bombardment. The Government loss is placed at 100 killed. The fighting continues.

J. J. COMBS MAKES HIS APPEARANCE AT PLACE IN WAIKIKI

J. J. Combs, for whose arrest on account of an alleged tendering of worthless checks to the Wilder S. S. Co. and other concerns, a warrant was sent to Hawaii some time ago, surprised the police department and everyone else acquainted with the case by bobbing up serenely in this city.

High Sheriff Brown, by the Kinau, received a letter from Manager Vredenburg, of Puako plantation, to the effect that Combs was staying in a small fishing village in the vicinity of Puako. The High Sheriff was this morning informed that Combs had been seen last night in Waikiki.

Those who saw him were officers of a steamer of the Wilder Company and knew him well. The police are at present looking for the man.

ROWELL WILL DO MARSTON CAMPBELL'S WORK FOR PERIOD

Marston Campbell, who tendered his resignation as an employee of the Public Works Department to Superintendent Cooper last week, will shortly make a journey to the Mainland on a vacation for the benefit of his health. Until the time of his departure for the Coast Mr. Campbell will continue his duties as engineer with the department.

Superintendent Cooper has asked W. E. Rowell to carry on Mr. Campbell's work during the latter's absence. Mr. Rowell has agreed so to do.

Upon the return of Marston Campbell it is Mr. Cooper's wish that he resume his work in the office from which he asked to resign. Whether he will do so lies with Mr. Campbell. His vacation will probably occupy a couple of months.
